2	Request for secondment to the ACIB, GMC – PPD PPD apprised the Commission on the communication received from the RCSC regarding the request of the ACIB to continue the special assignment of three deputed officials on secondment for a further period of three years. Under the proposed arrangement, the officials would continue to draw their salaries from the ACC, while the GMCA may provide additional supplementary remuneration as an incentive during the secondment period. In this regard, the RCSC sought clarification on the ACC's position, including the proposed date of relieving and measures to address potential staff gaps within the ACC arising from the continued secondment. Concurrently, Ms. Kinley Wangmo and Mr. Sonam Wangdi submitted formal requests to revert to the ACC. Ms. Kinley Wangmo cited her shortlisting for the Chief Planning Officer position in the ACC, while Mr. Sonam Wangdi expressed his intention to continue serving within the ACC. The matter was deliberated in the HRC, which recommended accepting their requests and initiating internal replacement through the opening of positions within the ACC from investigation,	Decided to discuss the matter with the Head, ACIB in light of the requests received from the two officers to revert to the ACC and the proposal to arrange suitable replacements for secondment. Directed the HRS to communicate the same to the RCSC and share subsequent update upon further decision.

	complaints, prevention, education, and planning services. In view of the above developments, the Commission emphasized the need to carefully balance institutional requirements and collaborative commitments with due consideration of the staff's requests, while ensuring proper succession planning and timely replacement to the ACIB.
3	Update on advocacy session in Pemagatshel and Tashigang – TRO TRO presented an overall update on advocacy sessions conducted in their region, covering 70 Gewogs under six Dzongkhags and reaching a total of 10,154 participants over the last three FYs. During FY 2025-2026, TRO completed sessions in 19 Gewogs across two Dzongkhags, engaging 3,220 participants in Trashigang and 1,044 in Pemagatshel. The sessions focused on the ACC's mandates and functions, corruption offences, complaint management policy and procedures, and social accountability. Key lessons learned and take aways included: - limited public understanding of corruption, with a tendency to equate any wrongdoing as corruption; - limited awareness, including among LG functionaries, regarding the establishment and role of ROs; - limited outreach to far-flung Gewogs; - lower participation from middle-aged groups and males, with majority attendance by women, senior citizens, and youth; - greater effectiveness of case study based learning; - budgetary constraints for refreshments considering the distance one has to travel to attend the session; and - emerging corruption risks in areas such as commercial farming and management of Gewog infrastructure (e.g., guest houses). Of the 85 feedback responses received, 94% rated the sessions as 'Satisfactory', with strong emphasis on expanding outreach to remote Chiwogs. Some of the frequently raised issues were related to prolonged postings of forestry and land officials, allegations regarding ESP loans vis-s-vis social media claims, and whether GST invoice inflation and false declarations at DRC counters constitute corruption, among others. Recalling recent management discussion during the MTR, the Commission reiterated the importance of	Noted with following specific directives: - analyze the demographic profile of participants (including gender, education, profession, and related indicators) attending the sessions to better understand audience composition and inform the design of future advocacy interventions. - review and recalibrate session content, with closer coordination between the ROs and DoPE, to ensure consistency, relevance, and greater impact. - capitalize sessions hosted by other agencies within the respective regions to optimize outreach and mitigate budgetary constraints. - escalate any capacity constraints faced by the ROs to the Departments/Division concerned at the Head Office and to the Commission for appropriate support.

	maintaining detailed participant data (e.g., phone number, email, CID) for follow-up, monitoring, and future enrichment of programs. The Commission also emphasized the need for all ROs to compile questions raised during sessions and submit them to ED, DoPE to develop a consolidated FAQ bank for improved preparedness and consistency in advocacy delivery.
4	Others - TI CPI 2025 Commission highlighted the need to undertake a deeper analysis of the four contributing data sources to ascertain the underlying reasons for the one-point decline in Bhutan's score. Based on such analysis, the Commission underscored the importance of formulating targeted strategies and stakeholder engagements to address identified gaps and strengthen future performance.	PPD to present tentative plan on how to leverage the TI CPI findings and foster collective alliance in strengthening the systems of integrity and good governance.
